

Save Thousands of Pounds on Lacquer Pens

"Not only have lacquer pens proved the most popular item in the Briwax Professional range of white and woodgrain window repair products, but we have also discovered that we can offer customers substantial savings," claims Product Manager, Stuart Jack. "We have compared our prices to similar products on the market and, for example, window manufacturers using high volumes of lacquer pens could save thousands of pounds every year by switching brands."

Although most commonly used in production for finishing foiled corners, installers are also realising how useful the pens can be for on-site repairs and a special touch-up paint has been developed specifically for this purpose.

Launched 18 months ago, the range has quickly gained popularity amongst manufacturers, installers and repairers alike. The comprehensive selection of products is both extremely effective and easy to use and includes special items for PVC-u – offering 10 different shades of white – and is also suitable for repairs to solid wood
